FOOTBALL.

TALE AND PRINCETON TO-MORROW.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR HANDLING THE BIG

CROWDS EXPECTED AT NEW-HAVEN. Great interest is being taken in the final preparations for the annual Yale-Princeton football game, which will be played at New-Haven to-morrow. The senting arrangements at Yale Field and the general handling of the crowds will, as usual, be in the hands of Julian W. Curriss, the well known Yale graduate, who has managed with signal success so many of the big college football games. Curtiss has great executive ability, and is ready of decision in meeting the many complicated questions that come up in the management of a large football game and its attending crowds and manifold complexities. He is, moreover, extremely courteous to representatives of the press, and wholly impartial in his dealings with them. always makes every endeavor that they and the public shall have the best possible service that can be rendered.

This year there will be no side line badges issued for newspaper men, and only a few selected coaches and substitutes will be allowed on the side lines. The representatives of the press will occupy a stand at the rear of the grandstand, right opposite the centre of the gridiron, where they can look down upon the whole field and see the battle spread out before them. This is the system that has always been adopted at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, with signal success. It was also followed out at Cambridge last Saturday, though with a lesser degree of success, owing to the fact that the grandstands at Harvard were so enormous and so deep that the press men at the rear of them were really removed a considerable distance from the field. Large crowds will go from this city to the game, and already in college and university circles here the approaching contest is the only subject of conversation.

As for the condition of the two elevens, The Tribune special dispatches from day to day indicated pretty well the status prevailing at both Princeton and New-Haven. The hard luck stories that have come floating up from the Jersey town have been fairly Oriental in coloring and melancholy to a degree. Yale men, however, accept all such tales sceptically, though they have been induced to give odds on the New-Haven team.

YALE GROWING MORE CONFIDENT. BELIEF AT NEW-HAVEN THAT THE ELEVEN WILL CERTAINLY WIN FROM

PRINCETON. New-Haven, Conn., Nov. 23 (Special).-Except for the one short half played yesterday the regulars of the Yale football team have not lined up against the scrubs this week. The point which has been considered most vital has been the physical condiconsidered most vital has been the physical condi-tion of the men, and the coaches have yielded to the advice of Trainer Robinson. The result of this light work is gratifying, and every player is now in the best of condition. None has old injuries which will force him to retire after the first hard scrimmage, but every one will face Princeton with more endurance and will play with more dash than against Harvard. Gordon Brown has entirely recovered from the attack of indigestion from which he was suffering last Saturday, and will give Princeton's captain a much fiercer argument than he gave Captain Burden. According to the ideas son the diet of the players has been changed considerably, so that they are getting nearly the same food now as ordinary mortals. Yale men have great confidence in the new trainer, and consider him a find. An effort is being made to induce him to train the track team next spring and also the crew.

It is now decided that every man who played against Harvard will play against the Tigers, and it is confidently expected that, because of the ex-perience gained from a big contest, every man will play better. Each player has been carefully instructed in the finest points of the game by the coaches. Foster Sanford, the Columbia coach, spent Tuesday and yesterday here, teaching Hale more about the duties of his new position. It was Sanford who put Hale in Cunha's place only three days before the Harvard game, thereby making the centre one of the strongest instead of the weakest points in the line. Frank Hinkey has succeeded in at last getting speed enough into the ends, who will doubtless do much better, although they will not be equal to Frinceton's best pair. 'Billy' Buil has worked hard over his favorite. Sharpe, in the last few days, and he has shown much improvement in drop kicking. When Yale gets inside the thirty yard line he will have a chance instead of resorting to the ruse of losing twenty yards in order to keep the ball. There is a quiet air of confidence pervading the campus, and every one looks for a victory, although by a narrow margin. Capital McEntide looks happy once more and does not wear that grim look of determination which had marked him since the Columbia game. A victory is certainly expected, and the undergraduates will not be satisfied with less than two touchdowns.

The allotment of tickets, which was made on Tuesday, is still causing a great deal of adverse criticism among the students and the New-Haven alumni. Even the seniors have to be content with seats opposite the ten yard line, while the lower classmen are put on the Princeton side of the field. What has been done with the five middle sections is a mystery. spent Tuesday and yesterday here, teaching Hale

TICKET SPECULATORS FOILED.

New-Haven, Conn., Nov. 23.-The duel between the Yale football management and the ticket speculators who are operating in this city, doing business in admissions to the Vale-Princeton champlonship game, was intensified by the announcement that the football management would tomorrow put on public sale several hundred choice the Yale stands at the regular price. The speculators are knocked severely by this announcespeculators are knocked severely by this announcement, as they have been circulating the report that they gione have tickets now for sale.

There are nearly eighten thousand admissions for the game, of which about seventeen thousand, it is understood, have been sold. Frinceton has thirty-two hundred, and more than ten thousand were given out on applications from Yale students and undergraduates. The remainder have been sold publicly in New-Haven and in New-York or remain in the batch to be sold to-morrow and Sat-Urday morning.

MAKEUP OF THE TIGERS UNCERTAIN. CRAIG IS LIKELY TO SUPPLANT MILLS AT GUARD-MANY CHANGES FXPECTED.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 23 (Special).-With the possible exception of Booth at centre, Mills and Edwards at guard, and Hillebrand at tackle, the makeup of the team which will line up against the Elis day after to-morrow is as much of an unknown quantity as is the score in the game in question. The coaches to-day said that they do not know who will play the other tackle or the ends or quarterback or halfback. And even Mills is an uncertain quantity, for Craig is putting up a game fight for the place. Craig is, of course, fresh after a fall of comparative ease, and he brings a season of open play on nearby courses, is expected snap and dash and spirit of "get there" into the play which his opponent through sheer surfelt of football is unable to show.

If Poe and Palmer, the little wizards, prove unfit to go into the game with Yale, Harry Lathrop and Roper are the men who will take their places. Both Tyng, Toler, Armstrong, Watson and other well have showed up to good advantage this week. In the practice of Wednesday McCord was removed from the game because of a mighty tackle by Duncan, who played quarterback for the scrub. If McCord does not stay in the Yale game at least one Day, continuing through the following Saturday McCord does not stay in the Yale game at least one whole half Princeton's prospects are not good. Not another man on the whole squad can do such work as is absolutely necessary for Princeton's success. Reiter will start the game in all probability. He may last fifteen minutes, but the chances are not favorable. Then will come Knight, McClave and Lathrop, in the order named. None of them is a first class back, but they are Princeton's best. Kafer's retirement from the game has left a hole in the ranks of good ground gainers. When the above named men are used up Princeton will run in Levick. Wheeler showed a slight improvement in his kicking game in the last two days, but there is still much to be desired. His distance is approachin Levick. Wheeler showed a siight improvement in his kicking game in the last two days, but there is still much to be desired. His distance is approaching his usual form, but his judgment is at fault, and he doesn't get the ball off quickly enough to save the bleachers from palpitation of the heart. He continues lamentably weak at interference. Mattis is, on the other hand, gaining pretty steadily. He will without doubt be a football player before he graduates.

Whether it is that Hutchinson needs a great deal-of inspiration to bring out what there is in him, he surely has failed straight through to show up as he did in the Indian game. He fumbles badly, and is weak in giving out the plays. Yet he will probably be sent into the game at the start. For if he is at all dependent upon inspiration he is apt to have all he wants at New-Haven and should play the game of his life.

GOLF.

LAKEWOOD CLUB'S OPEN TOURNAMENT THANKSGIVING WEEK.

Jasper Lynch, secretary of the golf club of Lake wood, announced yesterday the list of prizes and conditions for the annual open tournament to be held on the Lakewood links Thanksgiving week. This tournament, which practically closes any contest since the Metropolitan championship at Garder City last spring. Herbert M. Harriman, the amateur champion, and Findlay S. Douglas the ex-champion, are expected to appear. Travis, known players from local clubs, together with the usual delegations from Boston and Philadelphia. will probably swell the entry list to more than one hundred. The contest is to begin on Thanksgiving The Lakewood Cup will be the chief prize offered, and for this only the best sixteen in the qualifying round will be eligible to compete. The second sixteen will meet for a consolation cup, while on Saturday there is to be an open handloap of eighteen holes, medal play, in which the winner will receive a cup and the maker of the best gross score a gold medal. There will also be a prize for the runner-up in each competition. The entries close the evening before each match with Mr. Lynch, at Lakewood.

One of the most interesting features of the tournament will be a meeting between teams representing the Intercollegiate and Metropolitan Golf associations. The college boys have long been anxious to arrange a match with some of the better known players in this district, and some time ago a letter was sent to the United States Golf Association asking it to provide for the contest in its calendar. This the association was unable to do, but the Lakewood golfers have taken up the idea and the match will be played in the coming tournament. In all probability each team will consist of ten men. The Lakewood Cup will be the chief prize offered.

PRINCETON'S NEW LINKS.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 23 (Special).—The Greens Committee of the Princeton Golf Association, together with "Willie" Dunn, has been employed for the last few days in making a more thorough survey of the land for the new links on the old Stockfarm, and has designated roughly the probable location of each hole of the proposed course. By this last survey it has been determined that the course will be one of the longest and, if properly put in shape, one of the best in the country.

put in shape, one of the best in the country. The course will be an eighteen hole one, and will cover a distance of about six thousand yards, or over three miles and a half.

There is a brook rising from a series of springs in the vicinity of the Stockton house, and running through the entire length of the farm to Stony Brook, which will furnish the hazards, as it must be crossed six times on the return trip. The longest hole will probably not exceed six hundred and fifty yards, and the others will be considerably under that. Dunn waxed enthusiastic over the character of the land. He found it to be a sandy loam, not objectionably rocky, and possessed of natural means of drainage which are in most cases adequate.

RESULTS AT HARBOR HILL

In the monthly handicap at the Harbor Hill Golf Club Saturday Otto Hockmeyer won the Class A contest with a score of $2-2-80, while C. P. Evers won in Class B with a score of 113-30-51. The women's handicap was won by Miss M. Worth at 102-22-80.

THE STATEN ISLAND CHAMPIONSHIP. The tournament for the Branch medal, carrying with it the championship of Staten Island, take place on Sunday, instead of Saturday, as first announced. The postponement is due to the fact that the final round for the Harbor Hill championship between Armstrong and Hockmeyer, as well as the Captain's Cup tournament, is to take place on Saturday at Harbor Hill, and, as most of the empetitors in the affair are also eligible for the Staten Island championship it was deemed best to avoid a conflict. The committee was averse to colding it over until the following week owing to the tournament at Lakewood, and Sunday therefore been chosen as the only available date. The qualifying round will be at eighteen holes, and the best eight players will become eligible for the match play, which is also to be at eighteen holes, with the exception of the finals, which will be at thirty-six. The match will take place at the Fox Hill links. Those who will compete are: Richmond County Country Club—Charles Stewart, J. Park, J. R. Chadwieg, C. T. Stout, A. E. Paterson, Otis L. Williams, W. W. Lowrey, C. W. Taintor and E. O. Schuyler, Harbor Hill Golf Club—W. A. Hamilton, J. A. Janin, fr., A. B. ## YACHTING.

FOR A DEFENDER FROM CITY ISLAND. GARDNER & COX LIKELY TO ENLARGE ON THE CARTOON IF THERE IS A CHAL-LENGE NEXT YEAR.

There is something in the wind at City Island, and the time is not yet ripe for the publication of the news. In fact the whole of it depends upon a contingency. There is no getting at the bottom of the rumor, but there are satisfactory grounds for saying that if a certain thing happens some news will be given out that will be of great interest to yachtsmen generally. There has been a guess made City Island (and it may be only a guess). if a challenge comes now for an America Cup race next year, Gardner & Cox will design a ninety footer to contest in the trial races. Gardner & Cox employ Frank Wood, of City Island, to build their best boats, and for many years this trio has carried off everything that their racers sailed for in their respective classes. There was the Norota, which for years was the prettiest thing sailed for in their respective classes. There was the Norota, which for years was the prettiest thing on the Sound, as well as the fastest forty ever known. Then came the Syce, in the fifty-one foot class, and she has been an almost continuous winner against the Vencedor, the Kestrel, and the Acushia II. which was Hanley's failure of last year. Their Cartoon has been the fastest of her class ever known. When questioned about this yesterday, Wood declined to talk on the subject, and not a word could be got out of him. That was altogether right on his part, but if the guess be true that Gardner & Cox are commissioned to put up a defending yacht for next year, it is ten to put up a defending yacht for next year, it is ten to put up a defending yacht for next year, it is ten to he mark frank Wood will build her, because his work on the other champions left nothing to be desired, and Gardner knows just where he is when he is at Wood's yard.

In the early part of last summer and all through last winter there was a general resret expressed that Gardner did not have a boat in for the trial races. His phenomenal successes with the Cartoon, which was practically a new creation developed from the half rater and twenty foot classes, gave him a great prestige in Eastern waters. His Cartoon not only beat the racers of her own class, but also not only beat the racers of her own class, but also the big yachts of the class above, which were started five minutes previously.
